

WORLD MEN'S TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP

1. INTRODUCTION

In January 1967 the first meeting of the International Squash Rackets Federation (ISRF) was held in London. This followed a gathering a year previously of representatives from Australia, Canada, Egypt, Great Britain, India, New Zealand, Pakistan, South Africa and USA, following which a constitution was agreed. One aspect of this was the holding of international championships, the first of which was held later in that year. Then, and subsequently, all matches have been held on a three man team basis.

Notes:

The 1995 Championships in Cairo attracted a record 32 teams after a motion increasing maximum entry to 32 was passed at the 1994 WSF AGM in Guernsey. The format was also changed allowing any team seeded in the top 16 to have a chance of winning a World Championship.

England won the Championship for the first time.

Argentina, at only their second World Men's Team Championship, became the first team from South America to reach the top 16.

First entry to the Championships from Portugal.

Australia fell out of the top 3 for the first time since 1987.

Scotland, playing without Peter Nicol, recorded their lowest ever finishing position (16).
